Abstract Water-washable cleaning papers are obtained by adding an oil (e.g. olive oil, tsubaki oil, liquid paraffin, squalane, higher fatty acid, etc.) suitable for cosmetics and anionic, cationic, nonionic, or amphoteric surfactant in a ratio of 90:10-99.9:0.1 to a water-soluble or dispersible cellulose fibre sheet or nonwoven fabric. The pref. amount of the oil and surfactant mixture to be added to the water-soluble or dispersible cellulose fibre sheet or nonwoven fabric is 10-20 g/m² of the sheet or paper. The water-washable cleaning paper may be mixed with a wetting agent, an antiseptic, a fungicide, an antioxidant, a perfume, etc. in appropriate amounts.

USE/ADVANTAGE - The water-washable cleaning papers can be easily and completely dispersed or dissolved in water and also have a high cleaning activity for the human skin, etc. The water-washable cleaning papers are effectively and sanitarily used as toilet paper, wet tissue, etc.
